Cornish College of the Art’s Summer Program is a unique opportunity for students to create artwork, meet faculty, make friends, and become more familiar with Cornish and all that the college offers.

Cornish College of the Arts has a uniquely urban location that brings with it a responsibility to create a safe environment for summer students under the age of 18. We take that responsibility very seriously. Cornish’s Summer Program is oriented toward creative and independent young people. Students must take initiative both in and outside of the classroom, and attendance in all classes is critical to the successful completion of the program. While supervision will be firmly in place, parents and students seeking a highly sheltered environment should consider this program carefully before applying. Outlined below are the standards for behavior and list of violations.

THE CORNISH NEIGHBORHOOD
Cornish College of the Arts is located in the South Lake Union District of Seattle, a thriving and rapidly-changing neighborhood that sits at the geographical center of the city. South Lake Union is an exceptionally walk-able and hospitable neighborhood, home to many new condominiums, Amazon.com, Whole Foods, the South Lake Union streetcar, the Center for Wooden Boats, the Museum of History and Industry, and countless cafés and restaurants.

STUDENT CONDUCT
Cornish maintains a zero tolerance policy for all illegal activities, including possession or use of drugs or alcohol, or firearms. At the discretion of the College, any student in violation of policies or otherwise creating an unsafe or unproductive climate may result in such sanctions as a warning or immediate dismissal.

ATTENDANCE
Summer at Cornish coursework will be intensive and rigorous, both physically and intellectually. Students will be expected to work at a quick clip to create multiple works for exhibition or performance. The fruits of their labor will be important to the development of the emerging artist as well as the college portfolio. Students are expected to arrive to all classes on time and attendance is critical. If an emergency presents itself and the student will be absent or tardy, they are encouraged to call the Summer and External Programs Manager at 206.726.5021, or email summer@cornish.edu.
